

African American/ Black Month Observations

Sejla Podzic

12/15/16

Black History Month

Martin Luther King Junior had done such a great impact and change for the education that we today are being taught. Martin had changed the future that awaits the African- American children in the terms of school, being equally treated and given the same amount respect and education to lead their dreams to a better view and a more possible term in becoming a reality. All children are now brought together in one community helping each other and caring for each other for a more positive environment. Martin Luther King Junior had changed the population of African- American people, making their lives better than before. Education is key as it gives us knowledge and experience as important as it develops us to be a better person and to be more aware of the surroundings we seek that acknowledge us around the world.

Martin Luther King had made America unite and form one house of passion and respect. His speeches had led to an extreme change and affect to the lives of many and he had inspired many and continues to do so. From his words that had marked our country, African- American children now have the right to dream big as much as any other children. As long as they work hard, they can achieve anything and picture anything in their minds.

Furthermore, education takes job in many rules and involves many crucial topics that make you lead to success. So for the whole community to know that all children have the ability and capability to go to school, makes our country gain a positive energy and side. It makes their lives end up to a happier resolution and can now focus and think about education and what it will bring their lives in.

Martin Luther King Jr. had much such a well influence and honesty we can all thank his participates and attendance in the world. We all know that all children deserve the same respect no matter their race or where they come from. Because we certainly know that all children deserve the same attention and that the environment should be thankful for the great influential change of uniting for a better world of education.